

The National Whig

TUESDAY EVENING, MAY 25, 1847.

FOR PRESIDENT, IN 1848,
MAJOR GENERAL
ZACHARY TAYLOR,
OF LOUISIANA,
THE HERO
OF
PALO ALTO, RESACA DE LA PALMA,
MONTEREY,
And Buena Vista.

Subject to the decision of the Whig National Convention.

Mr. T. M. Kimber is no longer an Agent for the National Whig.

NOTICE.—Persons indebted to the National Whig for advertisements, are respectfully requested to make payment either to the Proprietor in person, or to Mr. G. L. Gilchrist, who is our sole Agent, and whose receipts alone will be recognized by us as valid.

An Apology.—We crave the pardon of our Georgetown readers for sending them half-sheets yesterday, but the demand for our paper was so great as to swallow up every whole sheet we had printed. This will not occur again. The rapidity with which our circulation is going up is unexampled in the history of newspapers, and we shall show in a few days by the figures. Every day our calculations are exceeded by the extraordinary influx of subscribers. We are happy to say, in this connection, that our invitation to our subscribers some days ago, to become a Committee of One and to supply us with each a new subscriber has met with universal favor. The NATIONAL WHIG will soon be what its best friends wish it to be—THE paper of the District.

Another New Paper.—We understand that Mr. Finam of this city has it in contemplation to publish a weekly paper, devoted to the interests of Irish adopted citizens, shortly in this city. Such a paper will no doubt succeed well under his directions, as he is a gentleman of uncommon energy, and the able correspondent of four very influential papers at the North. The Irish adopted citizens throughout the States, can have no better sentinel to guard their rights, and expose the hollowness of politicians, who profess to be their friends, but who only use them for their own selfish ends, and afterwards laugh at them. Witness Mr. Polk's treatment of the Irish, without whose votes he would not be where he is. We wish him every success in the undertaking.

It is one of the proudest and most praiseworthy traits in American character—the defence paid on all occasions by the men to women. But we have noticed a great decline in this particular among the male visitors to the Capitol grounds.—They are in the habit of seizing upon the few seats which are provided in these public areas, and never rising to offer them to ladies who may be passing and who very naturally desire to occupy them. We are sure that every man who reads this paragraph, and who may have been guilty of this inattention to the wants of the sex, will take care that it shall not occur again.

Capitol Grounds. We desire to make some suggestions to Dr. Douglas, the new Commissioner which we hope he will take in good part. They are as follows:

1. To furnish the grounds both in the east and west areas with more seats for the accommodation of the lady visitors.
2. To direct the watchmen and gate-keepers to prevent negroes and negroes, mulattoes and mulattresses, from passing through the grounds unless in charge of children, or in waiting upon their masters and mistresses, or employers.
3. To direct them to prevent ingress of improper female characters, who are necessarily well known to the watchmen and gate-keepers.

The New York Dutch Schnellpost says that 800 Swiss have tendered their services to Mr. Polk to serve during the war with Mexico. We look daily for the order accepting the tender. He has more right to accept the services of foreigners to fight our wars, as he had to bring on the war and to make a tariff of duties for the captured ports of the United States—for he has only to intimate to them to emigrate to a certain state and then he can accept them as volunteers from that state under the act of May 13th, 1846. Swiss soldiers are worthy to be commanded by the Swiss Politician now at the head of our government! Now is the time for the Swiss correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger to get that commission!

Ho! for Oregon! We have advices from St. Joseph's, Missouri, to the 7th inst. It was crowded with emigrants bound to Oregon.—Three hundred wagons had already crossed the Missouri at that point, and it was believed that two hundred more would cross the present season. A large number was crossing at Iowa point. The grand line of march from the Iowa mission of the whole caravan was to be taken on the 12th inst. A large number of the Mormons was also preparing to go over Oregon from Council Bluffs. A pioneer party of 200 went out on the 18th of March last to plant corn. The whole of these people are however destined for California.

Why does not the "obsolete abstraction" of the Union stir up the patriotism of his untutored Democratic friends in the Democratic strongholds of Virginia, to make haste and raise the two companies recently called for from that State? It's a democratic war, you say, and surely you can't expect the "traitorous, Mexican Whigs" to do all the fighting!

By our special Overland REINDEER EXPRESS.

Some things can be done as well as others.

ONLY FIVE DAYS AND FOUR HOURS FROM NEW ORLEANS!!

9 DAYS LATER FROM VERA CRUZ. YELLOW JACK'S APPEARANCE.

DESPAIR IN CITY OF MEXICO.

Advance on Puebla.

GUERRILLA MURDERS.

Santa Anna's Movements.

After our paper went to press last evening our REIN DEER OVERLAND EXPRESS, arrived from New Orleans in 5 days and 4 hours precisely with our special Vera Cruz and Tampico correspondence. We hasten to lay it before our readers.

From our Vera Cruz Special Correspondent.

VERA CRUZ, MAY 14, 1847.

DEAR NATIONAL WHIG:—The Steamer Fashion (fashioned by our old friend Sloo) will carry this to New Orleans, whence your Overland Rein Deer Express will convey it to you in double quick time! Capt. Ivy will take it especially in charge, and hand it to your Express Rein Deer the moment his boat touches the levee! Now for the news.

The Fashion will carry over Gen. Patterson and Captains Moore, Pickens, Jones, and Coleman of the Alabama boys. She will also go freighted with cannon, small arms, standards, &c., as the trophies of Cerro Gordo. It is said that Santa Anna's leg is on board as a special trophy for Mr. Polk!

There are several regiments here on their way home. Poor fellows they are anxious to get away from this graveyard. The vomit or yellow jack has been attacking us with great fury. As yet our deaths have been few, but our only safety will be in flying from the rascal. He is more potent than a thousand Santa Anna's!

The Washington people will be glad to hear that Gen. Shields' recovery is certain—if he made as many friends with you as in the army.

Our advices are from Jalapa to the 11th inst. News had been received there that everything was anarchy in the city of Mexico. Confidence had fled; money there was none; hope had vanished, and despair had seized upon the public mind. The only hope of the thing, called the government, of making a resistance to our victorious arms was in exciting the populace to a pitch of frenzy, so as to induce them to die in their shoes, fighting for their homes, but the effort so far has proved a vain one.

Gen. Worth and Gen. Quitman are to enter Puebla on the 14th instant. No one anticipates any fighting at that point; indeed a larger portion of the people of that city were in favor of American occupation. This, my dear Nat. Whig, must be the policy we shall have to adopt, much as it is against our system of government at home, and the sooner our party friends know it the better. We must not let the Party in Power run away with the government another four years on this question. Old Zach is the man, however, to settle Mr. Polk's hash.

It was believed at Jalapa on the 11th inst. that Gen. Scott, with Gen. Twiggs, would leave for Puebla by the 15th instant at farthest, but there was much uncertainty about his movements. He is crippled by the return of so many of his troops. When he reaches Puebla the army will be reduced to 6,000. He intends, it is said, to add to the fortifications of that dungeon of sighs, the castle of Perote. The enemy evacuated Puebla on the 13th inst. Bravo and Canizales taking to their heels with their miserable remnants of troops, and "cutting stick" for the capital.

On the 8th instant, a heavy train of wagons, six miles long, carrying near a million of dollars, and escorted by 1,200 troops, left Vera Cruz for the interior. This is carrying "coals to Newcastle"; but the boys have no time to dig for them out of the Mexican mines, and so they burrow in Uncle Bob Walker's breeches' pocket just now pretty deeply. Santa Anna has threatened to cut off this train. He will find hot work if he attempts it.

Santa's whereabouts is hard to tell. Some say he is here, some there; but wherever he is, his power has gone, and I doubt whether he will ever be able to raise another army. He talks big, however; but that is his forte. His proclamations every day or two reach us, to make us laugh. One of the boys, who speaks Spanish, was captured the other day, and carried to old Santa. He says that the old fellow had got a new ash leg, and was at Orizaba, and has 4,000 men with him; but nobody cares for him now—Jays.

The march upon Puebla from Jalapa was made by brigades twenty-four hours apart.

The guerrillas have not done much damage as yet. They prey upon the Mexicans with more success. Dr. Kingsbury fell a victim to them the other day. They tortured him. The soles of his feet were cut to the bone. They sallied down the mountains a day or two ago and slew one of our volunteers.

It is supposed that Gen. Scott will cut himself off from Vera Cruz, as nears the Capital. What good he expects to attain by this move, it is difficult to say. He believes he can get supplies enough in the country as crops are ripening at this period.

There was a rumor in town yesterday, that

Santa Anna, had gone to Tampico,—which is more probable, than that of his intending to attack this place.

An American Spy, it is stated, returned to Jalapa on the 11th instant from the Capital which he left on the 2d. He reports only twenty thousand soldiers in the city, and none between it and Jalapa, save a company of lancers at Puebla.

The ship of the line Ohio has sailed for—somewhere.

By next steamer I shall be able to give you some more decided news.

ASMODEUS IN VERA CRUZ.

[From our Special Tampico Correspondent.]
Tampico, May 16, 1847.

Sir: The Fashion is in sight and I hasten to say that we have news from the city of Mexico to the 30th of April, and no great shakes it is, after all. Santa Anna was at Orizaba trying to raise troops. He begs the government to send him money. He has been granting guerrilla commissions and forcing the people to lend him money. His letters are in the usual bombastic style. He promises to pour out his blood for his dying country, and denounces the Mexicans for not whipping the invader. The newspapers berate him soundly, and call on the nation to die in its tracks rather than give up. War, war, war—was the cry. A Yankee has been arrested as a spy. He represented himself as an agent of our Government sent to offer peace. No doubt he is some of Mr. Polk's emissaries. An amnesty of all political offences has been declared by Congress. The priests were giving the church bells to be cast into cannon at Toluca. It seems that the conspiracy to retake this town failed only for the want of cash. One of the mines has loaned $50,000 to carry on the war. The San Luis people were looking daily for Old Zach. They had 4000 troops to oppose him. Here are two articles of a guerrilla oath.

1. To die in defence of our Lady of Guadalupe and in avenging the Catholic religion.
 2. To defend the integrity of the nation.
- In a hurry,

LATEST FROM SANTA FE AND CALIFORNIA.

Yesterday evening, says the St. Louis Republican several gentlemen arrived on board the John J. Hardin, direct from Santa Fe and California, from whom we have gathered the following information, and received the annexed letter from the city of Angels.

Lieut. Wm. G. Peck, of the Topographical corps, left Santa Fe in company with Messrs. Woods and Sanford, and their party. At the time he left Santa Fe, Col. Price was still there, and all was quiet, but it was believed to be that sullen and stubborn quiet which superior force alone compels. Although the insurrection, which we have heretofore noticed, had been put down, it was the general opinion that they only needed the aid of a competent leader to rise again. The civil government was going on trying the insurgents, Judge Beaubien presiding.

After Lieut. Peck was out some days from Santa Fe, he was joined by Mr. McKnight, from Chihuahua, Lieut. Theodore Talbot, who went out with Col. Fremont, Lieut. E. Beal, of the United States Navy, D. Troplin, U. S. Army, Christopher Carson, Robert E. Russell, and others, from California. From these gentlemen we learn, that the court at Taos had condemned a number of the insurgents to be hung, and that eleven had been executed, and a large number whipped. Six were hung on the day that Lieut. Talbot passed through Taos.

These executions excited the Mexicans very much—and when Mr. McKnight passed, through Vegas they were endeavoring to raise volunteers for another insurrection. The Alcalde and other influential men were opposing the effort, but with what success remained to be seen.

When Lieut. Peck and his party were about nine miles this side of the Cache on the Arkansas, they were attacked by a party of about ninety Comanche Indians, who succeeded in stealing 10 of their horses and mules. The party with Lieut. Peck fell back and waited two days, hoping to be joined by other parties coming in. On the second day, the Comanches again surrounded them, and succeeded in carrying off all their horses and mules—thirty-nine in number. In the second attack they had a fight of some duration, in which one man, named Williams, was severely but not mortally wounded, by a spear or lance, in the body. Several others had their clothing cut by the balls fired by the Indians. A musket ball struck the pistol of Lieut. Peck, on the lock, and took the impression of the manufacturer's name as plain as it could have been made upon it. They believe that they killed one of the Indians, and probably wounded more, but they were all carried off. They killed some of the Indians' horses. That night they were joined by the gentlemen above mentioned, and supplied with fresh animals.

At the bend of the Arkansas, a party of Pawnee Indians made an attack upon their camp, and attempted to excite a stampede among the horses, but did not succeed. They, however, stole two horses. They fired a good many arrows into the camp, but without effect. They appeared to have but one gun among them. These gentlemen report that it is the intention of the Indians to attack every party which they think they are strong enough to contend with, and are very hostile to us. This being the case, it behooves the general government immediately to send out a force and whip them into better behavior.

They met Mr. McDowell's company going out at Diamond Springs, and the next day met a small company at Council Grove.

Lieuts. Talbot, Beal, and the other gentlemen from California, left San Diego on the 25th of February last. At the time of their departure, Lieut. Col. Fremont was at Ciudad de Angeles, acting as Governor of the territory, under an appointment from Commodore Stockton. The Commodore had returned on board his ship, and had left that part of the coast. Col. Wm. H. Russell, of Calloway co., in this State, was acting as Secretary of the Territory.

Gen. Kearney was joined about the 9th of January, at San Diego, by Lieut. Col. Cooke, with the battalion of Mormons under his command. Great praise is bestowed on Col. Cooke, for the condition in which he brought his command in. It is said that all his men were in fine health, with their arms as bright as when they set out on the march—in excellent discipline, and without any serious loss.

Soon after being joined by Col. Cooke, General Kearney, with the Mormon dragoons, proceeded to Monterey, where he was, when our informant left. There he had been joined by the two artillery companies from Baltimore. We cannot learn from our informants, that any portion of Colonel Stevenson's command, from New York, had arrived. Commodore Shubrick had joined Gen. Kearney at Monterey; but we are unable to learn what their operations would be. The question of the right to act as Governor of the territory, was still in dispute between General Kearney and Commodore Stockton. It was understood that General Kearney intended setting out on his return about the 1st of July, but the state of affairs, it was supposed might delay his departure.

Some of the gentlemen named, we understand, are bearers of despatches to Washington.

From Santa Fe.

Our correspondent at Santa Fe, under date of the 7th of April, says:

All is apparently quiet here, but every observing man knows that we are walking daily over a volcano, which is ready to burst upon us if an opportunity offers. As I said in a former letter, in peace or war, this country cannot be retained but by military force.

Correspondence of the Missouri Republican.

Ciudad de los Angeles, or City of Angels, Upper California, 26th Jan. 1847.

After a long interruption of my correspondence, occasioned by the want of a conveyance, I avail myself of the opportunity of a courier about being sent home, to write you a brief letter.

I resigned the command of the emigrating party at Fort Laramie, and with only eight other persons, traded my wagons for pack mules, and thus proceeded on our long journey, and finally reached Sutter's Fort, on the Sacramento, on the last day of August, when I beheld the glorious spectacle of the stars and stripes floating where, but a short time before, the Mexican flag and rule maintained undisturbed sway.

I found Sutter's fort garrisoned by a detachment of Col. Fremont's command, who himself, with the balance of his little army, with a celerity that I believe no other person could equal, was traversing every portion of the territory, and subjecting it to the mild rule of our own government.

I remained but a short time at Sutter's, when I repaired to the mouth of the bay of San Francisco, to the most growing town in California, called Yerba Buena, where I found Commodore Stockton, in the United States frigate Congress, and several other United States vessels, portions of our squadron on the Pacific, and shortly after Col. Fremont arrived, preparatory to the entering on the duties of civil governor, a position assigned him by Commodore Stockton, in deference to the wishes of all who had witnessed his efficiency and gallantry in the field.

At this very juncture, however, an insurrection broke out in this portion of the country, and in this city, which has been the capital of Upper California; to suppress which Col. Fremont, whom I have attached myself to as a member of his staff forthwith set out by sea, and after a calm of two weeks on the justly named Pacific, we landed at Monterey, where we equipped ourselves, mounted our men, and after a long and tedious march of near two months, met the enemy near this place, who, without a regular fight, came in, capitulated, and the country is again at peace, and Col. Fremont is Governor; and, strange as it may seem, I am Secretary of State, and am now writing to you in the Government house of California, in a room of which I have my office.

Whilst our command lay at Monterey, Charles Burris, whom you recollect in St. Louis, and whom I found in this country, was sent out with a party to bring in a band of horses, and on returning was attacked by a party of Spaniards, and Burris and a young Mr. Ames, also of St. Louis, who came out from me from the States, were both killed, and were buried in an old Catholic mission called St. John's.

We found Gen. Kearney here, with instructions from the Secretary of War to conquer the country, and institute a civil government; but Com. Stockton, who was also here, maintained that the conquest had been made by him and Col. Fremont, and as an incident to it the right of forming a civil government belonged to him; and that Gen. Kearney's orders were now obsolete, because the business for which he had come had been anticipated by others.

The Commodore therefore appointed, as before remarked, Col. Fremont as Governor, and myself as Secretary of State, and ordered the convocation of a legislative assembly, which is to meet on the first day of March.

This is truly, in many respects, a fairy land. We are now luxuriating in oranges, grapes and pears, crops of the last year.

The Ship Fever has broken out in Baltimore. It is said to be contagious. Hope it will keep clear of our city.

In one of the most fashionable resorts in Paris is a cannon, loaded and primed and so placed that the focus of a burning glass falls upon the powder precisely at 12 o'clock; of course every pleasant day, the hour of noon is indicated by the firing of the cannon.

The Raymond Miss. Gazette and Port Gibson Miss. Herald go it with a rush for Old Zach. Hurra for Rough and Ready!!

The appointment of Caleb Cushing to a Brigadier Generalship, is spoken of as the first real sign of peace that has yet appeared in our war clouded horizon. We think it quite likely.

Leather clocks—that is clocks whose mechanism is of leather—are made in the Pittsburgh Penitentiary.

The New Orleans Picayune, speaking of Col. Caleb Cushing, as an officer, says: "Yet there is great doubt whether his civil instincts qualify him for a command in a service where the majority is with the enemy." Well done, that!

From a statement published in the Griffin (Geo.) Jeffersonian, of the 19th inst., it appears that the amount of Cotton shipped from that place by the Macon and Western Rail Road, from the first of September last, was 21,792 bales.
